

SILICON VALLEY'S "SNATCH TRAP" IS NOW BEING COPIED GLOBALLY

'Child support is 18 years of easy money': Women reveal the REAL reasons why they've lied about being on the Pill - and many DON'T regret what they've done

Anonymous women confessed why they had lied about using birth control
A large number of women revealed they had hoped to secretly try for a baby
Others wanted to lock men into paying 18 years worth of child support to them
By Latoya Gayle For Mailonline

496
shares

1.3k
View comments

Women from around the world have revealed the reasons why they lied to their partners about being on birth control.

Dozens took to the anonymous confessions app Whisper to share their poignant, and occasionally startling personal stories.

Many explained they were motivated by their desire to have a baby - even though their partner didn't feel the same.

Among the most shocking revelations was one from a woman who confessed she didn't feel guilty after falling pregnant with a wealthy bachelor's baby, because he was now supporting her. Another said she viewed child support as '18 years of easy money'.

Scroll down to read more of the anonymous confessions...

+15

People from around the world shared their brutally honest reasons for lying about using birth control with anonymous sharing app Whisper

SHARE THIS ARTICLE

RELATED ARTICLES

Revealed: How to give your child the BEST chance of getting...

'I love the fact he doesn't expect me to make an effort'...

The strategies that will have YOU thinking like a slim...

496 shares

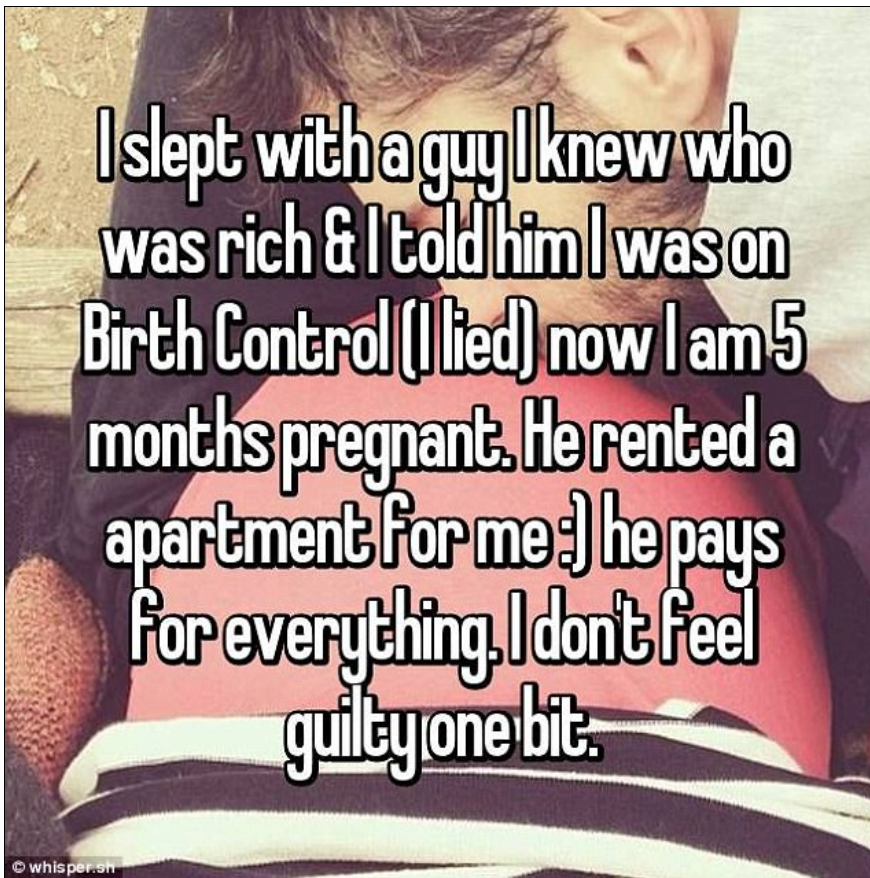

The ART of the selfie! New Google app matches people's face...

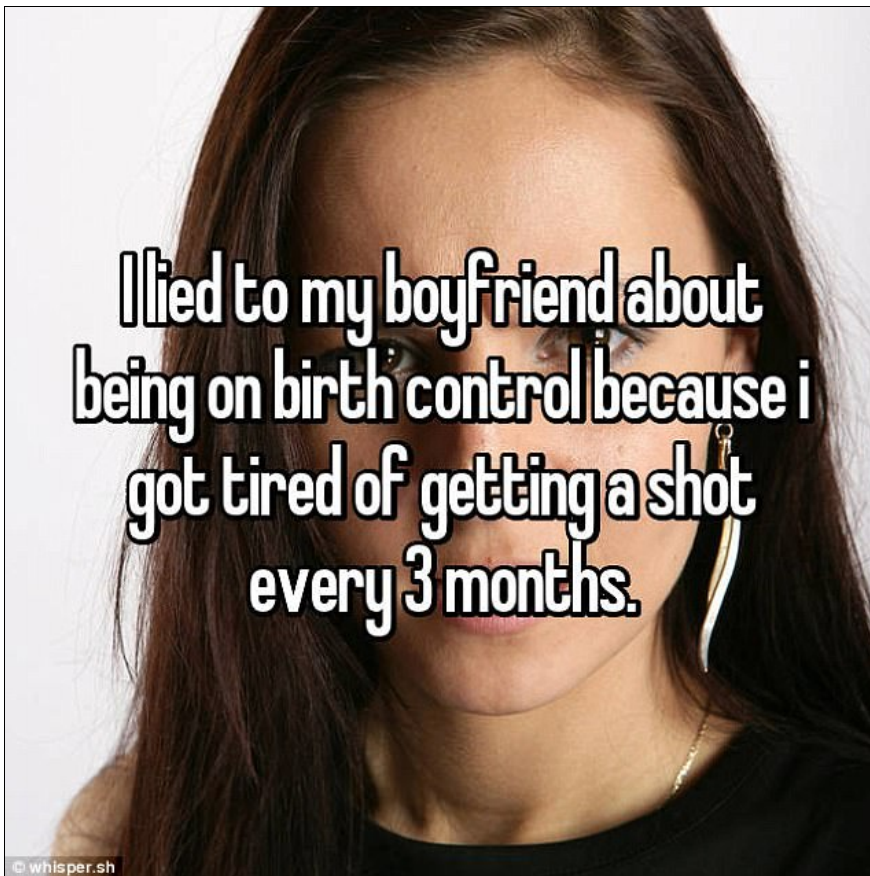

+15

Many people confessed they lied about being on contraceptives in secret hopes of becoming pregnant whilst having unprotected sex. This woman was 'desperate for a baby'

+15

One person who fell pregnant with a rich man's baby spoke about the perks of having someone pay for everything

+15

A woman confessed she lied to her boyfriend about being on contraception as they were fed up of getting injections

+15

Another person shared how their fear of spending life alone caused them to lie in the hopes of having a baby

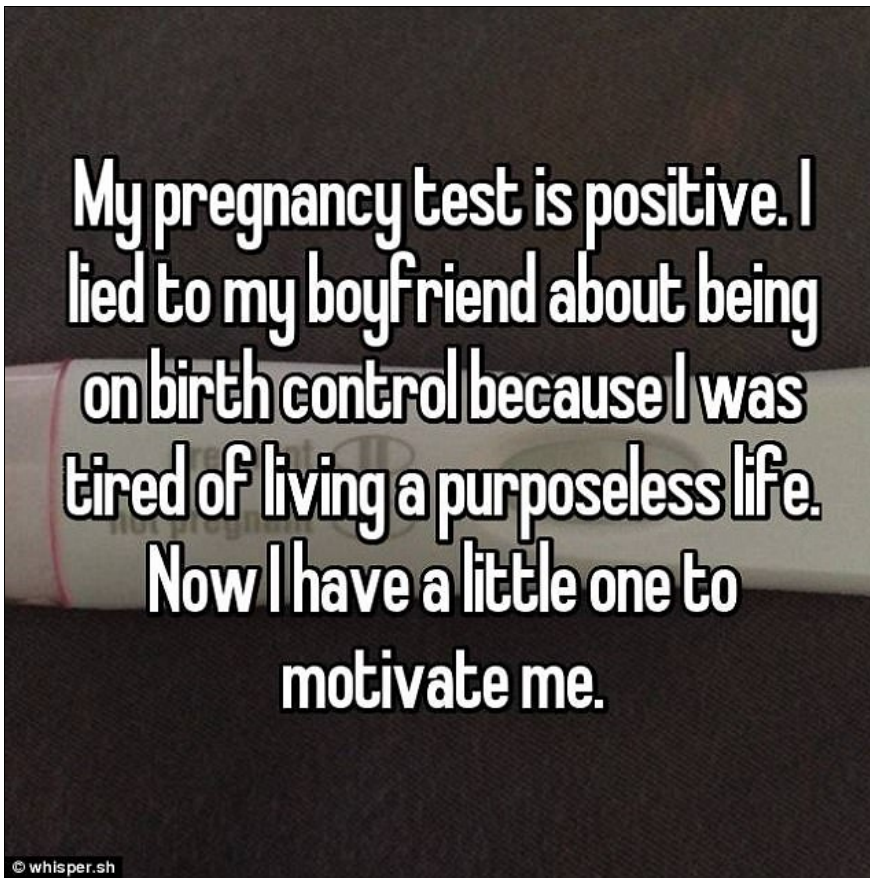

+15

A married woman confessed she was riddled with guilt for deliberately getting pregnant

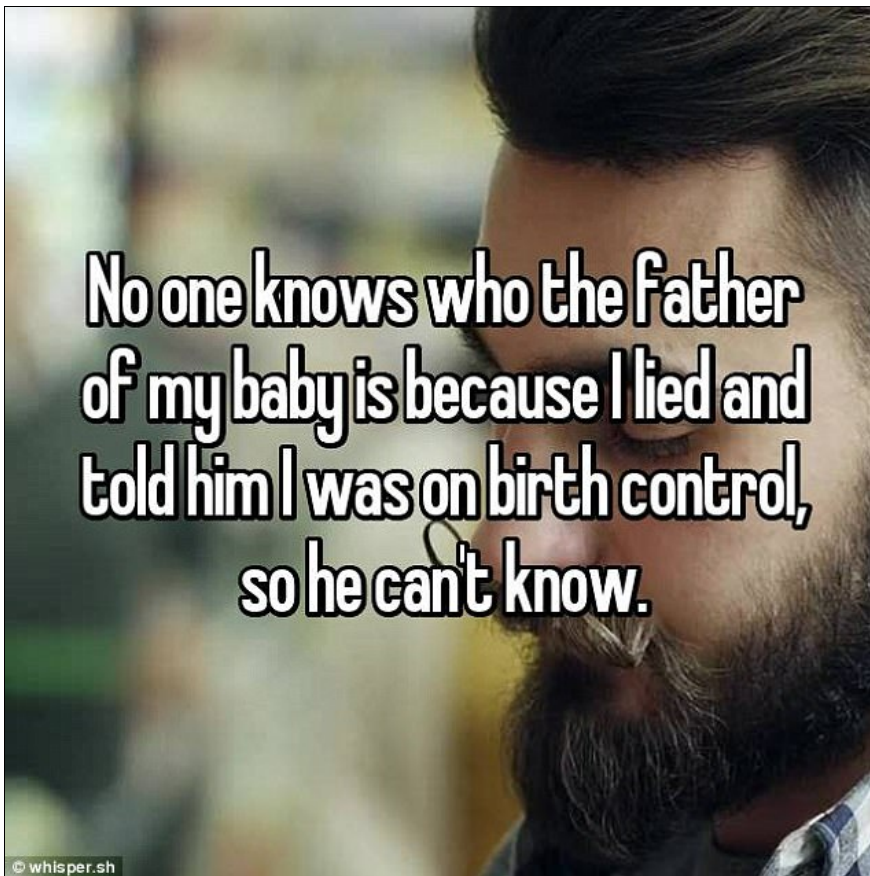

+15

One woman shared that she hadn't got pregnant despite sleeping with her boyfriend for two months without protection

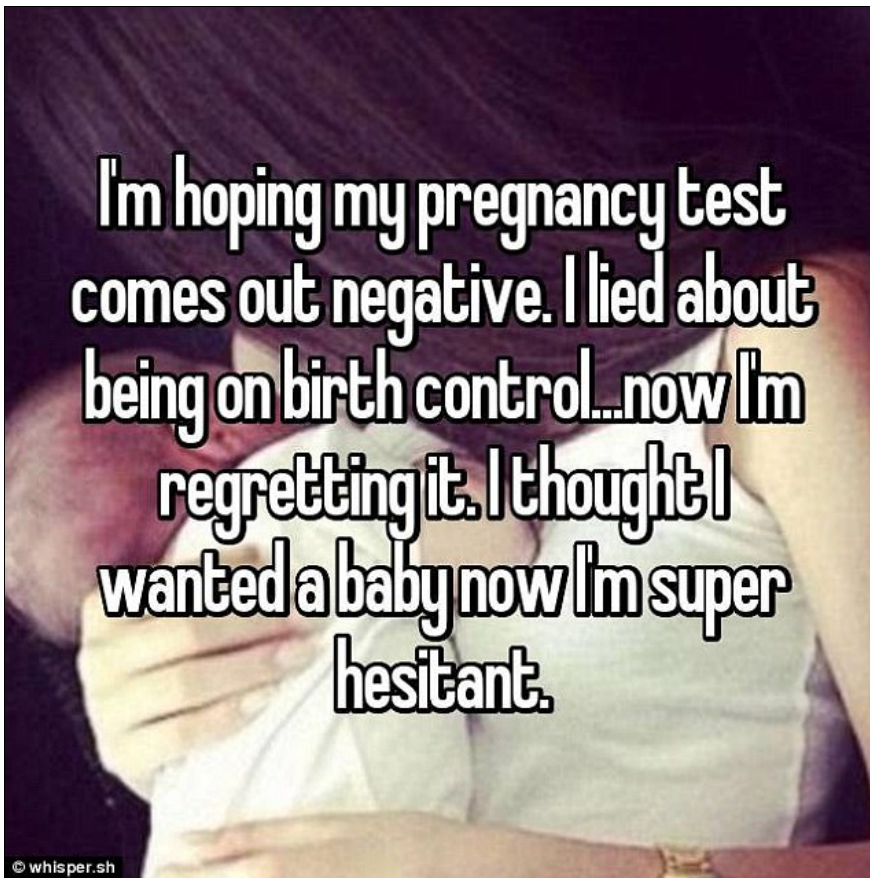

+15

An excited woman found motivation in seeing a positive pregnancy test after lying to her boyfriend about being on birth control

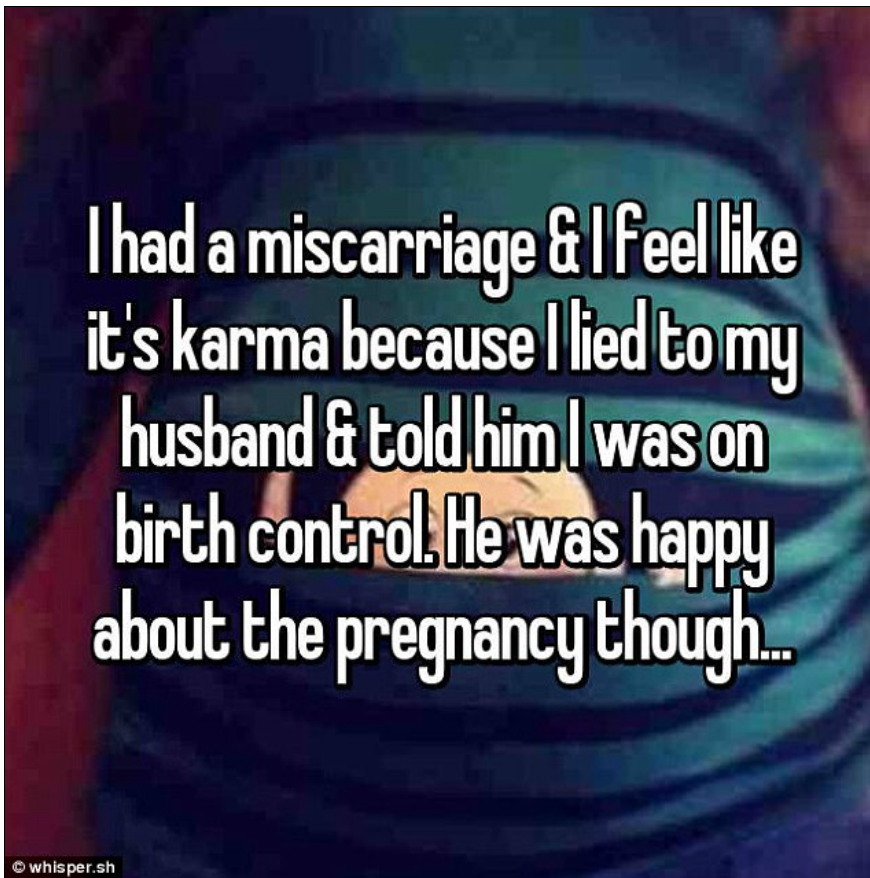

+15

One woman shared the dilemma of being unable to tell the father of her baby she's pregnant after giving the impression she was on contraception

+15

Another liar revealed she was having doubts about her decision to secretly try for a baby

+15

One woman felt guilty about her miscarriage after hiding the truth about her birth control from her husband

+15

Another woman chose to lie about being on birth control when her partner told her he didn't have any condoms

+15

An angry boyfriend confessed he felt 'tricked' after his girlfriend had pretended to be using contraception

+15

A mother shared that she had no regrets for having a baby with lies

+15

Another mother claimed she felt child support would be 18 years of easy money

Read more:

19 Women Reveal Why They Shamelessly Lied About Being On Birth Control

Read more: <http://www.dailymail.co.uk/femail/article-5271573/People-reveal-lied-using-contraceptives.html#ixzz54ScetVd5>

Follow us: @MailOnline on Twitter | DailyMail on Facebook